Re: Goldwing Construction Letter of Recommendation

To Whom it may concern,

Titan Logix recently contracted Goldwing Construction to renovate our offices while we were sequestered at home during the initial wave of the COVID pandemic. The project manager for the job was Patti Boyce. Our initial meeting with Patti was well managed. Patti had the answers to our questions. It was quite clear she understood the project and made some great suggestions to improve the look and feel of the final product. Our meeting with Patti bolstered our confidence in Goldwing's ability to complete the job in a professional manner, on budget and within the schedule presented. Given the fact we were in a pandemic there were some stringent COVID protocols to be followed, many of which were suggested by Goldwing and adopted for the project. We are happy to report no incidents or issues with the protocols.

As with most projects some activities/designs did not go as planned and required changes and redesign. Patti and Goldwing handled all changes in a professional manner and were fair with the change order process.

The work was completed with care and quality. We are very happy with the results and will use Goldwing for any future work.

Sincerely,
